MEET THE RESEARCH TEAM

PROJECT BACKGROUND

- 2016 LNIB Land Code is ratified
- 2019 LNIB begins project to learn more about traditional lands
- Learning from members about traditional land ownership and decision-making
- Hearing from members families about how new laws could reflect traditional processes

WHAT'S HAPPENING NOW?

- A draft Allotment Law has been prepared by LNIB
- The draft law includes steps for granting custom family allotments on members' traditional holdings
- The draft law is ready for community review

WORKING WITH THE COMMUNITY

- Community engagement so far has included:
 - Open houses
 - Family group meetings
 - Guidance from LMAC
 - One-on-one discussions with members
- COVID-19 has delayed in-person meetings

NEXT STEPS

- Bringing the draft Allotment Law to members for review
- How would members like to be involved?
- Updating the draft law based on members' input
- Presenting the Allotment Law for ratification

A rustic wooden barn with a shingled roof stands in a field with patches of snow. A black cow is visible in the background, and a red tractor is partially visible near the barn. The scene is framed by a wooden fence in the foreground. The background shows rolling hills and trees under a clear sky.
